Phi Sigma Anniversarian.

At the hall of the Phi Sigma Literary Society of the University on Saturday last, there was a spirited debate between the contestants for the honor of delivering the Anniversary address of that society in May 1885. The subject selected for discussion was an eminently practical and entertaining one. "Is a protective tariff conducive to the best interests of Mississippi?" Messrs J. M. Matthews, J. D. Millsaps, and P. E. Matthews represented the affirmative and Messrs G. T. Fitzhugh and Cortez Gilmer took the negative side of the question. There was quite a large audience present to hear the discussion and the following gentlemen were selected to award the palm for excellence of argument and declamation: Wm. Johnson, Rev. Mr. Buckley, A. G. Smith, J. S. Wheeler and S. F. Hampton. The manner in which the question was presented, both in the affirmative and negative, was highly creditable to all the speakers, showing much research and careful study of the subject. The first speeches were limited to twenty minutes each and the rejoinders to ten minutes each. The applause which greeted Mr. Matthews on his "second round" was a pretty clear indication of the impression he had created and though the contest had been close, his friends were quite confident when it was over. The judges had only been out long enough to take one ballot when they returned and announced their verdict in favor of Mr. Matthews. Thereupon there was very enthusiastic demonstration and the successful speaker was literally lifted from his feet and forced into the presidents stand, where he briefly but feelingly acknowledged the honor conferred upon him.

The Sunders.

Saturday night after the signal triumph of Mr. J. M. Matthews in being chosen Phi Sigma Anniversarian, his many friends secured the band; and repaired to his home, when the band had disappeared several stirring pieces. Mr. Matthews threw open his doors, and in a well timed speech invited his friends in. In accepting his kind invitation, responses were made by Messrs Maybin, Stevens W. F. and Tackett, after which all went into the parlor, where the good things of life, were dispensed with in style becoming to a university student. After an hour, most pleasantly spent his friends took their departure. In after-years the remembrance of that night will come before them when they desire to think of happy moments. The selection of Mr. J. M. Matthews adds new lustre to the already bright name of Phi Sigma and her members of today know that with Meredith as their representative at her next anniversary, she will be ably, grandly, represented, and they will assure the Alumni of Phi Sigma that new fame will be added to her after the 5th of May '85. On the whole we must say that it was one of the most enjoyable occasions we have ever known.

Section 861, of the Revised Code makes it obligatory upon the Board of Supervisors to fine all overseers of roads, who fail to make Semi-annual reports as required by law. The time to make these reports is at the annual Spring and Fall terms of the Board. These terms are held on the first Monday, after each term of the Circuit Court. The Board at its May term were compelled to enter fines against several overseers who failed to report. We are requested to say that if such delinquent overseers will come forward promptly and file their excuses with the clerk of the Board, they will save the costs of issuing and serving citations, on them. This failure to report, causes considerable trouble to the Board, besides forcing on them the unpleasant duty of having to impose fines.
